Dear Madam/Sir,

We've been using Multifoam for years and were one of the early adopters of the technology in and around 2006.

It's a game changing product as it helps in installing the finishing products at the last stage hence ensuring a better overall product.

Although it's premium compared to some other brands but when one factors in consumption, wastage etc. into account eventually it's more effective than it's peers.

We've installed thousands of frames with just the foam without any extra fasteners and have had zero complaints. Our own home and personal projects are done using the same technology.

With Bharat Mehta in the picture you get the complete package as there's technical inputs, good business ethics and a professional supplier to work with which is a boon in India's Real Estate supply chain.

Warm Regards,

For Kukreja Builders Group
